

Manager, R&D Collaborations Leveraging (664)

This is your opportunity to be involved in the creation of major partnerships and alliances and influence the future of Medical Device technology!

Position Description:

- Pursuing strategical alliances, creating them and following them
- Leveraging R&D collaborations to create new capabilities and new R&D programs
- Scouting for new collaboration opportunities including: academies, Startups, Leading physicians, external companies and opportunities within J&J
- Assess found opportunities
- Follow up agreements creation and drafts exchange and bring them to a successful execution
- Bring market information regarding to competition and new trends
- Create internal discussion to bring up the technological needs/requirements

Requirements:

- Engineering/ scientific degree, second degree is an advantage
- Experience in R&D positions preferably in the medical device industry or equivalent experience within JNJ company.
- Business experience such as creating collaborations and managing agreements
- Experience in collaborations with academy researchers and leading physicians in Israel and abroad – an advantage
- High level of English for daily communication, speaking and writing

Please send your CV to biosense_add_technion@talent-sys.com